NOTHING GIVEN OUT

Secret Conference Held at the White House Yesterday Morning.

Supposed to Have Been Looking Towards a Settlement of the Coal Strike.

APPEAL TO MINERS PROBABLE

Washington, Oct. 6.—In an earnest effort to expedite the adjustment of the coal strike problem, another conference over the situation was held at the White House yesterday and adjourned after three hours of deliberation. No statement was given out as to the conclusions reached, and every participant absolutely refused to discuss what had taken place during the meeting. The conference was called, although it was Sunday, in view of the extraordinary importance to the American people of a speedy solution of the question.

Besides the president, there were present at the conference, Secretary of War Root, Secretary of the Navy Moody, Attorney General Knox, Postmaster General Payne and Carroll D. Wright, United States commissioner of labor. The last named was summoned to attend the conference on account of his expert knowledge of the situation in the anthracite coal fields, and because of his personal investigation of the conditions there which he made some months ago at the instance of the president.

The conference began shortly after 10 o'clock, the time fixed by the president. When those who were to participate arrived at the White House in a drizzling rain, they found Surgeon General Hixey of the navy and Dr. Lunn, the president's physician, already there making the morning call on the distinguished patient. This caused a delay of a few minutes. When the two physicians left it was reported that the president's condition was progressing satisfactorily, and that there were no untoward developments.

The president expressing his views at the outset of the conference, talked earnestly and showed a deep feeling. His voice at times could be heard downstairs. Several times during the conference Secretary Cortelyou was summoned into the room and directed to prepare certain matters for the consideration of the president and of his advisers. This was taken to indicate that some action of one nature or another was about to be consummated.

When the conference adjourned a few minutes before 1 o'clock, all those who had joined in it declined to talk. Every member of the cabinet and Colonel Wright, the only outsider who was present, was pledged by the president to absolute secrecy as to what had occurred within the conference room. The utmost efforts were made to guard against publicity.

Under the circumstances it is almost impossible to do more than draw the most general conclusions as to the nature of the proceedings, based upon what preceded the meeting. The known facts are that the president has reached the conclusion that he has nothing to expect save refusal from a further appeal to the coal operators and therefore has decided to look for relief from the situation to the miners' side.

He feels that he hardly can expect them to make the sacrifice of all their contentions without holding out at least a promise of the same return, and the question before him is as to his ability to do this. He can pledge himself to appeal to congress to examine into the justice of the miners' complaints and remedy them so far as lie in the power of the legislative branch, backed by the earnest good will of the executive. Also he can suggest to Governor Stone of Pennsylvania that because the Pennsylvania legislature likewise make an inquiry, perhaps hastening the usual methods by calling an extra session. But these pledges would be given only on condition that the men go at once into the mines and get out with all speed at once the coal for which the

MORE TROUBLE.

THE DEBTS OF THE CASTELLANES COME UP FOR ANOTHER HEARING.

New York, Oct. 6.—A conference was held in the chambers of Judge Lacombe, of the United States circuit court by the lawyers interested in the affairs of Countess de Castellano.

Exactly what occurred none of the lawyers present would state, further than that several phases of the case brought against George J. Gould and Miss Helen M. Gould, as receivers of the countess, by the various creditors, were discussed, after which an adjournment was taken until some future date, to be determined by the arrival of certain papers from Paris.

It is said that Asher Wertheimer, who claims the Castellanes owe him in the neighborhood of $500,000, has offered to withdraw his case providing his claim is paid in monthly installments. He also asks that the countess insure her life in his favor for the amount due him. The other creditors protest, however, against this, unless a similar provision is made in their case.

EXTENSION OF THE TELEGRAPH.

Washington, Oct. 6.—The postoffice department for the first time is able to telegraph as far north as Eagle, Alaska. The telegram stated that a contract had been awarded for carrying the mails from Fort Yonkon to Bettles, above the Arctic Circle, for $500 a round trip of 200 miles.

Dr. Delia Caldwell has returned from New York City where she accompanied Mrs. Joseph L. Friedman.

people are suffering.

To adopt this course means the continuance of the policy of exerting moral suasion to the end of the strike. It is certain that thus far the president has not found a single one of his constitutional advisers who would suggest any departure from this policy; no one could find a method sanctioned by law or constitution which promised relief and involved the use of duress against either the operators or the miners.

It is believed here that the president has written Mitchell asking him to abandon the strike. It is possible that he may have a conference with Governor Stone here, and is also reported that he has written Governor Stone advising a special session of the legislature.

WORK BEGINS AT ONCE

Contract for the Steam Excavations Has Been Let.

The New Company Will Be Ready to Furnish Heat By December 1 in Paducah.

POWER HOUSE NEXT YEAR

The pipes for the new steam heating company will be laid at once. The contract for the excavations has been let by Mr. H. D. Fitch, of Bowling Green, the promoter of the enterprise, to the American Steam Heating company, of Chicago, and it is understood the price is $65,000 for the excavations and other work necessary before the plant can be put in operation.

Work will begin within ten days or two weeks. Mr. Fitch was here last week with Mr. Eddy, the engineer, and they went over the city securing grants and rights of way from various property owners.

No power house will be built this year, owing to the delay in selling the franchise, the steam for heating purposes to be secured from the exhaust pipes of the Paducah Railway and Light plant on Second street.

The pipes that are to convey the heat are to be laid three feet deep, and the pipes will be enclosed in pine boxes, sealed with tar and covered with tin.

The company will be ready to furnish heat by December 1.

Next spring the power house will be built. It is understood that the building, for the various purposes it is to be used, will cost somewhere between $75,000 and $90,000.

The pipes will be extended to the residence portion next year.

NEW FURNACE TO BE BUILT.

Chattanooga, Oct. 6.—A tract of land just outside of the city limits, at the base of Lookout Mountain, has been purchased by representatives of the Alabama Steel and Wire Co., upon which a large furnace will be built at once. It is thought that a steel mill will be built later. Joseph L. Schwab, brother of Charles M. Schwab, is interested in the deal.

MYSTERIOUS GRAVE.

Clarksville, Oct. 6.—A mysterious grave has been found near Half Pone, Tenn., which is believed to have covered an unknown crime. The grave was discovered in a thicket and is only eighteen inches deep. It is lined with slate rock and contained the human being who, from the position of the bones, must have been hurled in a doubled-up position. The grave is too well preserved to be that of an Indian. There is no clue to the mystery.

MOTORMEN DISCHARGED.

THE COMPANY AT OWENSBORO HEARD THEY WERE TO ORGANIZE A UNION.

Owensboro, Ky., Oct. 6.—Superintendent Roderick, of the Owensboro City Railway company, has discharged C. D. Roberts, a conductor, and J. W. Linton, Lee Mackinnon and Walter Morgan, motormen. It is claimed, because he discovered that they were about to organize a union of the company's employees. The discharged men say that all the employees had agreed to organize and had arranged with the officials of Central Labor Union, No. 1,701, to organize them. When the superintendent found it out and the men acknowledged to it they were discharged. The object in organizing was to get 15 cents an hour instead of 12 cents. They say it was not their purpose to get up a strike, but this is charged by the railway officials.

WICKLIFFE'S WELL.

NO OIL WAS FOUND, BUT THERE IS PLENTY OF WATER.

Wickliffe did not find oil, but the prospectors struck a fine supply of water, as the following item from the Yeoman will attest: Wickliffe is getting to be a great watering place—for the people of Wickliffe. The artesian well abandoned by the oil drillers is constantly flowing, and our citizens are going wild over it. You can see them all through the day visiting the well and carrying the water to their homes in buckets and jugs. There is considerable talk of organizing a stock company to purchase the well, erect a large hotel and make Wickliffe the favorite watering town in Kentucky.

Captain John Webb went to Henderson this morning on business.

FIFTY YEARS SERVICE

The Golden Jubilee of Bishop McCloskey Being Celebrated.

A Notable Procession in Louisville Yesterday—High Mass at the Cathedral Tomorrow

IS AN UNUSUAL EVENT

Louisville, Oct. 6.—The celebration of the golden jubilee of the Rt. Rev. William George McCloskey, bishop of Louisville, began yesterday. Just a half century ago the venerable bishop was ordained a priest, and the Catholic residents of Louisville entered into the happy event with a zeal that shows the love and esteem in which they hold the bishop, who is indeed respected by all, regardless of creed.

Miniatures bearing the handsome features of the right reverend bishop are everywhere in evidence. Old and young wear the little button of the man in purple who has faithfully served his people for 50 years, and demonstrated that he has been to them a good shepherd. Right royally indeed did they manifest their esteem for this faithful pastor when each orator of the 31st and around the city sent its representatives to do him honor. The labor of weeks showed its results, old places having been made new in and around the cathedral. Even the school buildings were renovated, and the altars made perfect bowers of beauty. Ivy, smilax, trailing white arbutus, lilies and white roses, everything exquisite in white and green that the florists can furnish is used in the decorations during these three days. The rarest and oldest candleabra in polished silver and cut glass have been brought out and assigned their places of state on the main altar, and the most modern, embroidered linens and delicate lace are swaying with every autumn breeze that comes in through open doors and windows.

The feature yesterday was the great procession, which was among the most notable affairs ever known in the city. The mass was the usual Sunday service.

The procession was composed of two divisions, the eastern and the western. Spalding Coleman was the chief marshal of the parade. Mr. Martin Kolb, chief aide of the eastern district. Mr. Fred Baner, C. B. Rademaker and Owen McCann, assistant aides. Mr. J. J. Coleman was in charge of the western district, with John McQuinn, Andrew O'Connell, Joseph Macaig, and Tom Evans as assistants.

The orphans of St. Vincent's Asylum were conveyed in wagons, under the care of Mr. Tony Meade, Sr., while those of St. Joseph's Home were in charge of Mr. Martin Kolb.

The Knights of St. John, divided into two battalions, marched at the head of the procession.

Six bands of music, one colored, accompanied the procession. One feature of the day was that the three parishes of St. Helen's, Holy Trinity of St. Matthews and St. George, of Eighteenth and Standard avenues, joined the procession mounted.

On Tuesday solemn pontifical high mass will be celebrated in the cathedral at which it is estimated that at least 200 bishops and clergymen will be present.

A grand choir and orchestra will commemorate the event. A banquet will be served the Right Reverend Jambrian and the attending bishops and priests and a purse of $1,000 has been subscribed.

Bishop McCloskey was born November 10, 1823, in Brooklyn, N. Y., educated at Mt. St. Mary's College, Emmettsburg, Md. In early life he studied and practiced law, but his mind took a more serious turn and he prepared to enter the ministry. After the completion of his studies, he was ordained in New York by Archbishop Hughes on September 28, 1852. After spending some years in the diocese of New York, he was appointed president of the American college in Rome, which had lately been created by the American hierarchy for the education of American young men in Rome who wish to study for the priesthood. His lot was cast in troubled times owing to the Italian revolutions, but he managed the college with much tact and judgment. At one time, when the financial affairs of the institution were at a very low ebb, Dr. McCloskey ordered a banquet for the young men, saying, "If we have to go down, let it be with flying colors." His experience

COMMON SENSE AND CONSUMPTION

The treatment of consumption is every year becoming more successful. The majority of cases can be cured if taken in time. Not more medicine but more common sense is the cause of the improvement.

Fresh air, good climate, food, clothing, exercise, all these are important features of common sense treatment.

As a builder of flesh and restorer of strength Scott's Emulsion is still unequalled. The special action of Scott's Emulsion on the lungs is as much of a mystery as ever—but an undoubted fact.

Common sense and Scott's Emulsion is good treatment.

We'll send you a bottle to try, if you like. SCOTT & BOWNE, 409 Pearl Street, New York.

tations for the college were always great and favorable and its present standing proves the correctness of his judgment concerning it.

In 1867, on the death of Bishop LaVie, Dr. McCloskey was chosen to succeed him and was consecrated by Cardinal Reissach in Rome, whence he immediately started for this country.

POSTPONED UNTIL WEDNESDAY

WAS THE LAYING OF THE CORNER STONE OF THE CARNegie LIBRARY.

The laying of the corner stone on the Carnegie library set for this afternoon at 2:30 o'clock, has been postponed until the same hour Wednesday afternoon. This was made necessary by the inability of the contractors to have things in readiness for the ceremonies. The rain set them back, and it would have been impossible to hold the exercises today.

The program will be readed Wednesday at 2:30 p. m. and the schools will be dismissed in time for all the children to attend. The ceremonies will be under the auspices of the Masons.

GOLDEN JUBILEE.

MOTHER SUPERIOR AT NAZARETH CELEBRATES THIS WEEK.

Mother Olephas, the venerable mother superior of Nazareth Academy, will celebrate her golden jubilee this week. Mother Olephas took the vows of her office a half century ago, and is well known in Catholic circles throughout the state, and greatly venerated.

The celebration of her golden jubilee will be an event of interest and importance, and an elaborate program has been arranged. Distinguished guests at the exercises will be Sister Mary Vincent and sister Johanna, of St. Catherine's Academy, Louisville, who also took the vows 50 years ago.

LONG DISTANCE LINES.

SEVERAL WIRES BEING STRUNG BETWEEN HERE AND LOUISVILLE.

The Cumberland Telephone company's linemen have reached Madisonville with the line being strung from Paducah to Louisville, and adjacent cities off the main line of the Illinois Central. There are two copper wires to Madisonville and a force of men is also strung two wires to Hopkinsville from Princeton, and two more wires are being strung back towards Paducah, which will be the Louisville wires. The work is progressing as rapidly as possible.

STREET CAR HIT WAGON.

A Broadway car in charge of Motorman John Webb struck and killed Henderson's garbage wagon at Seventh and Broadway Saturday night about 6:30 o'clock, and knocked Henderson out with sufficient force to break a small bone in his left leg and otherwise hurt him. The horse was so badly hurt that it had to be killed, and the car was damaged. The motorman claims that he rang the gong for the crossing and did not see the outfit until too late to avoid the collision. Henderson says he did not hear the bell.

Mr. Albert Foster left this morning for the East on a drumming trip.

DR. PRETTY EAGLE

Indian Medicine Man Marries a Union County Girl.

Two Ceremonies Were Performed—The Groom Was Formerly in Paducah.

Dr. Louis Pretty Eagle, the Indian medicine man who had a brief but eventful career in Paducah last spring was one of the principals in a romantic marriage a few days ago at Morganfield, Union county.

His other name is Louis E. Allan, and he married Miss Etta Shreve, of Union county, by a double ceremony, one being performed by the Rev. O. H. Gregston, of Morganfield, and the other by the Indian chief, Prairie Dog, of South Dakota, now stopping at Morganfield.

Dr. Pretty Eagle formed the acquaintance of Miss Shreve and they were married in one week from the time of their introduction. Mr. Gregston called the couple out under a spreading cedar tree at the residence of Mrs. Mary E. Howea, at Teer Hill, two miles south of Morganfield, and spoke the words which made them husband and wife. After this ceremony the party formed a circle and the couple was married by the Indian code, Chief Prairie Dog speaking the ceremony in the Indian tongue. When the vows were taken Pretty Eagle and Prairie Dog danced a marriage powwow, each giving his blessing to the bride. Prayer was then said and the strange rites were ended.

Dr. Pretty Eagle had some trouble here over a board bill, and just before he left had an announcement in some of the papers that he was to be married here one Sunday to a white woman. It seems from recent developments, however, that the wedding here missed connections.

LITTLE FOR CHARITY.

THE DEMAND WILL PROBABLY BE GREATER THIS YEAR, WITH LESS FUNDS.

Councilman Joe Fowler stated this morning that he doesn't know what the poor of Paducah are going to do this year, as the city is in no position to help them, owing to the probable advance in the price of coal, and the shortage in funds. It is probable that there will be, on account of the increase in the price of coal, a greater demand for charity from the poor of the community, and the city will hardly be able to afford any assistance this winter.

There is some talk of starting a relief fund, but nothing has yet been done. The charity organizations will doubtless have their hands full in a few weeks, when the cool weather arrives.

Mrs. W. M. Mercer left this morning for Mercer Station to visit her sister, Mrs. Jennie Dovey, who is ill at that place.

OLD PEOPLE

Do not always receive the sympathy and attention which they deserve. Their ailments are regarded as purely imaginary, or natural and unavoidable at their time of life. Disease and infirmity should not always be associated with old age. The eye of the gray haired grandparent may be as bright and the complexion as fair as any of his younger and more vigorous companions.

Good Blood is the secret of healthy old age, for it regulates and controls every part of the body, strengthens the nerves, makes the muscles elastic and supple, the bones strong and the flesh firm; but when this life fluid is polluted or poisoned and loses its nutritive, health sustaining elements, then there is a rapid decline of the vital powers, resulting in premature old age and disease. Any derangement of the blood quickly shows itself in an ulcer, sore, wart, tumor or some other troublesome growth upon the body, and rheumatic and neuralgic pains become almost constant, accompanied with poor digestion and cold extremities.

SSS S. S. S. being purely vegetable, is the safest and best blood purifier for old people. It does not shock or hurt the system like the strong mineral remedies, but gently and thoroughly cleanses the blood and stimulates the debilitated organs, when all bodily ailments disappear. S. S. S. is just such a tonic as old people need to improve a weak digestion and tone up the stomach. If there is any hereditary taint, or the remains of some disease contracted in early life, S. S. S. will search it out and remove every vestige of it from the system.

Write us fully about your case and let our physicians advise and help you. This will cost you nothing, and we will mail free our book on blood and skin diseases. THE SWIFT SPECIFIC COMPANY, Atlanta, Ga.

PADUCAN IN LOUISVILLE.

MR. A. S. TERRELL HAS A NUMBER OF PROPOSITIONS.

Yesterday's Courier-Journal said: Mr. A. S. Terrell, of Paducah, is spending a few days in the city on business. Mr. Terrell is an amusement promoter, and was the organizer and one of the owners of Buckskin Bill's Wild West Show, which is now in Texas, nearing the close of its second season. He sold the show last spring to its present owners, who reside in Chicago. Prior to organizing the Wild West Show Mr. Terrell operated a circus and a traveling horse show and was for some years the lessee of Paducah's leading opera house. Mr. Terrell has had no attractions on the road for several months, but says he has several interesting propositions to re-enter the show business. He is in no hurry to accept any of them, as he desires to take a long rest from the arduous duties of the road. He is active in the business and political affairs of his home city, and he has held several official positions in Paducah.

LEAVES FOR A HUNT.

MR. GEORGE ROBERTSON TAKES 35 DOGS WITH HIM.

Mr. George Robertson left yesterday afternoon for White River, Ark., on a four months' hunt. He carried a complete hunting outfit and 35 dogs which were shipped as freight to his destination. He went to Memphis from here and from Memphis he will go to Helena and from there to White river. He will be met at Memphis and Helena by four companions who will remain with him during the entire hunt. His riding outfit had been on display at the Bronagh gun store on Broadway for several weeks and was about as complete as could be found.

BOLD THEFT AT THE MARKET HOUSE THIS MORNING EARLY.

Mr. John Theobald, the well known butcher, came to market this morning about 5 o'clock, the usual time, with a sack containing $20 and some small change. He left it on the wagon seat and told his son to take care of it, but it seems the latter forgot it and left it on the seat a few moments.

When they went to get it later it was gone. The thief probably found it while prowling about the wagon. He got away with it and the police have no clue, although they were apprised of the theft a short time after it was committed.

Educational Classes Open This Week —Large Crowd Out Yesterday.

A Bible Class Also Organized by the Association Yesterday.

The sacred concert at the Y. M. C. A. yesterday afternoon was successful in every respect, seventy visitors being in attendance.

Thursday evening there will be a "nut scramble" for boys between the ages of 12 and 16. They will call at the association for tickets, although the scramble is free to all. This will be the formal opening of the boys' department.

Yesterday afternoon the bible study class was started and six members were enrolled. Before the class has been started long it is assured that the membership will have increased until the class is the largest of any other class in the association work.

The musical program was well carried out, several notable local musicians rendering delightful selections on violin, cornet, and vocally. A feature of the meeting was the able twenty minute address by Rev. J. C. Reid on "Some Reasons Why a Young Man Should Study the Bible." He made some very fine points and was listened to with interest.

The following classes will be opened this week, today being the initial opening of the educational department: Mechanical drawing, meet from 7:30 to 9:30 o'clock each Monday and Thursday evening, fee $5 for six months' course; architectural drawing, meet from 7:30 to 9:30 o'clock each Monday and Thursday evening, same fee as above; free hand drawing, meet same hours of same evenings with same fee; elementary arithmetic, meet from 7:30 to 8:30 o'clock each Monday and Thursday evening; advanced arithmetic, meet from 8:30 to 9:30 o'clock each Monday and Thursday evening; penmanship, meets from 7:30 to 8:15 o'clock each Tuesday and Friday evening; elementary bookkeeping meets from 8:15 to 9:30 o'clock each Tuesday and Friday evening; elementary English, meets from 8:30 until 9:30 o'clock each Tuesday and Friday evening; advanced English, meets from 7:30 to 9:30 o'clock each Tuesday and Friday evening; commercial law, meets from 7:30 to 8:30 o'clock every Wednesday night.

DO YOU WANT TO YAWN?

Feel cold shiverings, aching in the bones, lack of energy, headache, and great depression? These symptoms may be followed by violent headache, high fever, extreme nervousness, a condition known as malaria. Herbine cures it. Take it before the disease gets a fair hold, though it will work a cure in any stage. J. A. Hopkins, Manchester, Kan., writes: "I have used your great medicine, Herbine, for several years. There is nothing better for malaria, chills and fever, headache, biliousness, and for a blood-purifying tonic, there is nothing as good." 50c at DuBois, Kolb and Co.

CAUGHT IN MISSOURI.

Charles Ashley, a river rat wanted here for several months for stealing a raft of logs from Riglesberger's mill and selling it at Brookport, has been captured at New Madrid, Mo., and requisition papers have been applied for by Captain Henry Bailey. Officer Joe Woods will be sent for him as soon as the papers arrive.

BEAUTIFUL COMPLEXIONS.

Are spoiled by using any kind of preparation that fills the pores of the skin. The best way to secure a clear complexion, free from sallowness, pimples, blotches, etc., is to keep the liver in good order. An occasional dose of Herbine will cleanse the bowels, regulate the liver, and so establish a clear, healthy complexion. 50c at DuBois, Kolb and Co.

DAILY THOUGHT.

Life always takes on the character of its motive.—J. G. Holland.

THE WEATHER.

Fair tonight and Tuesday.

REGISTER TOMORROW.

It is the duty of every Republican to register tomorrow if he desires to vote in the elections during the next year, including the approaching November election. There is to be a general election next year, and they should register now in case there should be a primary in which they desire to vote next spring or summer. The law provides a supplementary registration day, but does not make one imperative,
and there may be none this year,
hence it behooves every Republican to register tomorrow and be on the safe side. The polls will be open from 6
a. m. until 9 p. m., and the place to register is the same place you vote.
There is no occasion for making a mistake or for delaying the matter. Go to the polls as early as possible tomorrow and register. It is the duty of every Republican, and should be promptly attended to. The Republicans this year stand a good chance to keep some of the old Democratic crowd out of office, and should not neglect their opportunity.

Indiana is very much wrought up over the gigantic scandal unearthed in the body snatching exposures. It seems that few cemeteries around Indianapolis have escaped the depreda-tion of the grave desecrators, and not least among the offenders are the officials of some of the medical colleges.
Ten bodies were found buried in the cellar of one Saturday, none of which has yet been identified. One thing seems certain from the present agitation, and that is that it will be some time before anyone goes into the body stealing business around Indianapolis again. There seems to be no material left.

A Louisville judge has just rendered an opinion that no property used for church purposes can be taxed, no matter who owns it. The construction of the law was that if a person wanted to allow his or her property to be used for a church, it could not be exempt from taxation unless the law intended that property "used" for churches, as well as that owned by churches, be exempt.

The city council at Hopkinsville has defeated an ordinance to refer to the people for a vote on the question, the issue of $15,000 in bonds for a new city hospital. The excuse was that the members had no expression from the people as to whether they wanted the hospital or not. It seems that this is what the vote was intended to decide.

Boudling does not seem to have proven very salutary for the enterprising legislators of St. Louis, most of whom are now in the toils. The first trial of one of the offenders charged with being connected with the various crooked deals resulted Saturday in Banker Snyder, charged with bribery, getting five years.

The recent strain on President Roosevelt resulting from his operation and the coal strike conference, has resulted in the announcement that he will have to be extremely quiet for the next ten days to avoid a set back.
Only the most urgent matters will be brought to his attention.

The prosperous of Paducah have felt the effects of the Democratic administrations when they paid their taxes. The poor will feel it this winter when they find that there is no money with which to relieve their distress, by furnishing those who are helpless with food, fuel and raiment.

A Louisville man has offered a novel defense in a slander suit wherein he was sued for accusing one Lee Cohn of having "sworn to a d— lie." He says that the statement was made in good faith, and that he honestly believed that the man did swear a lie and said
so without malice.

Tomorrow is registration day, and Republicans are urged to go to the polls and register, in order to vote during the next year. It is hoped that none will neglect this important matter, as there may be no other opportunity to register this year.

One of the beauties of strikes is evident now in New Orleans where the street cars are tied up, and the merchants are on the verge of having to close their stores because people cannot get to them to trade.

Mayfield is becoming metropolitan.
They have reached that exalted state wherein shoe shines cost ten cents and barbers charge five cents extra for shaving the neck, which the Messenger regards as a sure sign of progress.

Mr. W. L. Cannon, of Woodford county, was nominated at Lexington Saturday by the Republicans of the Seventh district for congress.

DECREASE $918,919

OVER $52,000,000 COST OF YEAR'S ARMY OPERATION.

Washington, Oct. 6.—According to the annual report of the paymaster general, army expenditures decreased during the past fiscal year $918,919,
as compared with the preceding year, partly owing to the decrease in the pay of the army and in part owing to a reduction of claims for extra pay by volunteers. The total expenditures of Paymaster General Bates were $32,- 523,479. The paymaster general's report contains a strong plea for the establishment of a retired list for government clerks, based on the deduc-tion of a small monthly sum from the salary of each clerk.

ZOLA'S FUNERAL.

IT WAS VERY IMPRESSIVE YES-TERDAY AT PARIS.

Paris, Oct. 6.—The remains of Emile Zola were laid to rest yesterday with simple but impressive ceremonies. It was such a funeral as Zola himself would have wished, without pomp, but with the serious ranks of thousands of workmen, many accompanied by their wives, sorrowfully marching behind his coffin. Municipal guards, mounted and on foot, lined the route, but except for a company of infantry which rendered military honors to the body as it was carried from the house to the hearse, they were there as guardians of order and not as participants in the ceremony.

Cultivation of the Orchid.

An authority on the orchid says an amateur cultivator often fails, not so much through want of attention, but through overattention and a disregard of nature and her laws.

Stigma Removed From Seldier.

Michael Mullett, an honest citizen of Congressman Sulzer's district in New York city, has succeeded in having congress remove from his name the undeserved stigma that he was a deserter from the army. He served in the civil war and while at home on a furlough was drugged and shipped, under another name, on board a naval receiving ship. In due course he was listed as a deserter, but did not learn of this until recently. Then he interested Sulzer in his case and the congressman secured the passage of a bill correcting Mullett's military record. The old soldier's daughter is just about to be married, and her father knows of no better wedding present to give her than the gift secured through congress.

One on the Chaplain.

A chaplain in one of the regiments in Cuba had been a watchmaker, so when he joined the regiment he brought a consignment of second hand watches, that he disposed of at good prices, although they did not give satisfaction. One Sunday morning he announced that he was going to preach a sermon entitled "Fools," which caused many a smile to wander over the faces of his soldier-congregation. During the afternoon he made a short cut down a company street in time to hear a soldier inside of a tent ask his comrade: "Ray, Bill, are you going up to hear the preachin' chap tonight?"
"Hub, why should I go up? I didn't buy any of his watches!" was the reply.

American Money Goes to England.

A number of American women prominent in London society just now derive large incomes which came to them through having New York husbands. There is Mrs. Ralph Vivian, who enjoys half the income of the estate of her first husband, Marshall O.
Roberts, which, on her demise, will go to his son, Marshall Roberts, to all interests and purposes a Britisher. Among others are Lady William Beresford, whose income is from the estate of Louis Hamersley; Mrs. Ronalds, from her divorced husband, still living, P. Lorillard Ronalds; Mrs. Mackay, from John W.
Mackay, and the Countess of Strafford, from the late William Colgate, the earl having been able to leave nothing to his widow.

The Cost of Profanity.

Persons with small purses should be careful to estimate the cost of profanity before indulging in it. A millionaire might afford many highly seasoned oaths at sixty-seven cents apiece, perhaps, under the statutory tariff; but the more common variety of man will find it hard if he is to pay forty cents each for those of inferior quality. The inveterate swearer would do well to carry about with him a copy of the oath tariff and to consult it with great care whenever the forbidden desire comes upon him.—

Astonished the Cashier.

A curious check was presented to the cashier of one of the Tonawanda banks recently. This check, which was for $10, was made payable to "the sweetest of the sweet," and was presented to the cashier in the usual way.
The cashier, naturally startled by the unusual expression of the body of the check, asked in innocence: "Who is the 'sweetest of the sweet'?" "I am," replied the lady. "Kindly endorse in that way," said the cashier. She did.
And, as her husband's account warranted it, for, like a prudent man, he had not overdrawn it, "the sweetest of the sweet" received her money.

Changes in Burns Cottage.

Some extensive changes are being made in the Burns cottage at Alloway, Scotland, where the poet was born, but assurance is given that the external appearance will not be injured, and in a way the place will be made more like what it was in Burns' day, for an outbuilding erected between 1805 and 1819 is to be removed. There is now an entire electric tramway running past the cottage door and a road is being built between "auld haunted kirk" and the monument.

Makes War on Locusts.

During the last month there has been a novel army and a novel enemy in the cotton growing districts of Central Asia. The locusts have been devouring everything, and so great armies of chickens were driven through the fields of cotton. They did their duty faithfully and well,
but it seemed impossible to supply them with sufficient water and they were forced to retreat.

Abyssinian's Grave Rehearsal.

While Ras Makonnen, the Abyssinian general, was in Paris a reporter undertook to interview him, and among others put this decidedly leading question: "Do your countrymen
like the French or the English the better?" The dark-skinned warrior gravely asked in return: "Is your respected mother still alive?" and on receiving an affirmative answer said: "May she teach you better discretion."

—The abundance of bright, and pretty costumes, dainty musical music, and scenery, make the production of the "Two Merry Tramps" so closely resemble an elaborate extravaganza that theatre goers scarcely realize that they are witnessing a farce comedy, it being so different from the ordinary play of its class. Thursday night, October 9 will be the laughing night when this splendid organization appears at the Kentucky. Seats on sale Wednesday.

—"The Eleventh Hour" which comes to The Kentucky Wednesday matinee and night, is without doubt Lincoln J. Carter's best play. It is a melodrama of the most pronounced type, but without any of the usual attendant unpleasant explosions and "gan" plays. In fact there is only one life lost in the play, though the audience continually hopes that that fate will overtake several of the participants, but the villain is kindly spared until the last act, when the "Law of the Arm" gathers them in the most satisfactory manner. IMPORTANT DECISION.

THAT LAEVISON'S PALE ALE
AND IRON-TONE ARE NON-INTOXICATING.

Another victory has been scored by the A. M. Laevison bottling works regarding their mild drinks. Mr. F. Melton, the well known merchant of Mayfield, Ky., who has been handling "Iron-Tone" and "Pale Ale," manufactured by A. M. Laevison and Co., was tried before Judge Webb, of Mayfield, day before yesterday on the charge of dispensing intoxicating liquors in violation of the local option law. After hearing the evidence and testing the "Pale Ale" and "Iron-Tone," Judge Webb immediately dismissed the case, and informed Mr. Melton the drinks were non-intoxicating and he could sell them at his pleasure. This is further conclusive proof added to the heretofore favorably rendered decisions holding Laevison's drinks non-intoxicating.

Princeton Preachers.

The senior class of the Princeton Theological Seminary, which was graduated on May 6, was in many respects one of the most remarkable classes that has been graduated from that institution since it was founded, ninety years of age, says the New York Tribune. The class numbered forty-four members, more than a third of whom will take up their life work in the cause of home or foreign missions. Champions of the gridiron and diamond, of chess and checkers, debaters and preachers of no mean ability are to be found among these young "men of the cloth." Two of them are married and twenty-one are engaged to be married. There is one colored man and one Japanese in the group. Twenty-eight colleges and eighteen states are represented by them.

Appearances Are Deceptive.

When looking at Lord Charles Beresford's strong, vigorous frame it is difficult to realize that he was once a delicate lad and was sent to sea for the sake of his health, says Tit Bits. He tells the story that when, in 1860, he first set foot on board ship and was making his way along the deck of H. M. S. Marlborough to report himself, he overheard a bluejacket whisper to another, "Poor little chap; he ain't long for this world, that's sure." A fortnight later the grave had closed over the seaman, but the "poor little chap" is very much alive still.

Was Not Appreciated.

Dr. Robert F. Weir of the College of Physicians and Surgeons was describing an operation he had performed for the purpose of making a new nose for a man who had lost that more or less ornamental organ, says the New York Times. To replace the lost bony framework Dr. Weir had made use of part of the breastbone of a duck. The doctor concluded by saying: "The man was very well satisfied with the result, but I do not think I shall repeat the operation, for this patient persists in speaking of me as his 'quack' doctor."

Chinese Documents.

Many ancient documents have been discovered in the exploration of the sand covered towns of Chinese Turkestan. They consist of writings on wooden tablets, and are sealed and tied when found, the sand having preserved them in excellent condition. Even the ink with which they were written is still black and easily read. It is believed that these documents will throw much light on the life and customs of the people that formerly lived in this desert. The script in which they are written is of a kind still known in India.

Deacons Not Let Out.

During one of Bishop Potter's parochial visits there happened to be a number of young deacons in the vestry room before service. One of them, who was rather talkative, remarked, "See, Bishop, in the benediction there is mention of you," pointing to the words, "Oh, all ye priests of the Lord, bless ye the Lord," etc., "but there is nothing said about us deacons; I don't think it is quite fair!"

"Oh, yes, there is," quietly replied the Bishop. "Here it is: 'Oh, all ye green things upon the earth, bless ye the Lord!'"—New York Times.

Was a Cousin of Horace Greeley.

John W. Greeley, a cousin of the founder of the New York Tribune, died in Londonderry, N. H., in the eighty-fourth year of his age. He and Horace Greeley were born in the same house in Amherst, N. H. He was a member of a family of thirteen children. He is survived by his widow, to whom he had been married fifty-eight years.

THE RIVER NEWS.

THE STAGES.

Cairo, 1.7—1.3 rise.
Chattanooga, 2.8—0.5 fall.
Cincinnati, 5.9—0.8 rise.
Evansville, 3.7—0.1 fall.
Florence, 1.6—0.0 fall.
Johnsonville, 3.9—0.4 fall.
Louisville, 4.9—1.3 rise.
Mt. Carmel, 6.4—1.9 rise.
Nashville, 3.0—1.3 fall.
Pittsburg, 6.5—0.2 fall.
Davis Island Dam, 4.6—0.0 rise.
St. Louis, 19.3—0.9 rise.
Paducah, 5.1—0.1 rise.

The above is an official report of the stages taken this morning, the report being for the past 24 hours.

Observations taken at 7 a. m. River 5.1 on the gauge, a rise of 0.1 in last 8 hours. Wind southwest, a light breeze. Weather cloudy and cooler. Rainfall in last 24 hours 0.38 inches. Temperature 54. Fell, 1 Observer.

The river is falling slightly today, but it is expected will begin rising again today or tomorrow. It is doubtful if there will be a good boating stage on the present rise, however, but river men are hopeful. If the present stage remains the Joe Fowler will probably be started again in the Evansville trade the latter part of the week. She is the only one of the packet line now ready, the Hopkins not being fully overhauled as yet, and the Dick Fowler being on the ways.

The towboats Sam Brown and Nellie Walton which are laid up at Steubenville, have been painted white. The bulkhead of the Brown used to be a stone color. It was a favorite one of Captain Samuel S. Brown. The coal combination, however, desires to keep their boats as much alike as possible.

The new St. Louis and Tennessee river line mail carrier, Shiloh, being built at Ed Howard's, will soon be ready for her trial trip, and Captain Alex Halliday's steel double hulled ferryboat will soon be ready to launch.

The Battorf left again in the Cumberland river trade this morning. Mr. Herbert Worland, formerly of the Louisville and Evansville mail line, arrived last night to go out on her as second clerk.

The big towboat Boaz, of the coal combine, arrived yesterday from Jopka with a big tow of empties, and is laid up at the island awaiting a rise sufficient to take her to Pittsburg.

There are a number of Pittsburg men in the city looking after the Pittsburg boats which are lying on the other side of the island.

The Russell Lord and Inverness are undergoing repairs preparatory to going into the tie trade again.

The Margaret will go out soon for the Ayer and Lord people, probably the latter part of the week.

The Memphis, running in the place of the Clyde, is due tomorrow evening from the Tennessee.

The Olifton is due out of the Tennessee river tomorrow at noon en route to St. Louis.

The Pavenia will go out about Wednesday for ties on her first trip since the rise.

The Penguin is lying at the wharf preparatory to going into the Tennessee.

The J. B. Richardson left at 8:30 today for Cairo with a good trip.

The Olyde departed on time Saturday night for Tennessee river.

The Mary N. took a tow of logs to Monon City this morning.

The Dudley is due tomorrow from Evansville.

MOTHERS.

Who would keep their children in good health, should watch for the first symptoms of worms, and remove them with White's Cream Vermifuge. It is the children's best tonic. It gets digestion at work so that their food does them good, and they grow up healthy and strong. 25c at DuBois, Kolb and Co.

BLACK ROCK

By RALPH CONNOR

"When God chooses," he answered gravely. "And don't you ever think that it is worth while. The value of work is not that crowds stare at it. It is worth while, man!"

He rose abruptly and began to walk about.

"And don't miss the whole meaning of the life that lies at the foundation of your religion. Yes," he added to himself. "The work is worth doing, worth even her doing."

I could not think so then, but the light of the after years proved him wiser than I. A man to see far must climb to some height, and I was not much upon the plain in those days to catch even a glimpse of distant sunlight upon the triumphal achievement that lay beyond the valley of self-anxiety.

CHAPTER V. THE MAKING OF THE LEAGUE.

THURSDAY morning found Craig anxious, even gloomy, but with light in every line of his face. I tried to cheer him in my clumsy way by chattering him about his league, but he did not blaze up, as he often did. It was a thing to hear his heart for that. He only shook a little from my stupid chaff and said: "Don't, old chap. This is a good deal to me. I've tried for two years to get this, and if it falls through now I shall find it hard to bear."

Then I repeated my light words and said: "Why, the thing will go sure enough. After that scene in the church they won't go back."

"Poor fellows!" he said, as if to himself. "Whisky is about the only excitement they have, and they find it pretty tough to give it up, and a lot of the men are against the total abstinence idea. It seems not to them."

"It is pretty steep," I said. "Can't you do without it?"

"No; I fear not. There is nothing else for it. Some of them talk of compromise. They want to quit the saloon and drink quietly in their shacks. The moderate drinker may have his place in other countries, though I can't see it. I haven't thought that out, but here the only safe man is the man who quits it dead and fights it straight. Anything else is sheerest humbug and nonsense."

I had not gone in much for total abstinence up to this time, chiefly because its advocates seemed for the most part to be somewhat ill balanced, but as I listened to Craig I began to feel that perhaps there was a total abstinence side to the temperance question, and, as to Black Rock, I could see how it must be one thing or the other.

We found Mrs. Mayor brave and bright. She shared Mr. Craig's anxiety, but not his gloom. Her courage was of that serene kind that refuses to believe defeat possible and lifts the spirit into the triumph of final victory. Through the past week she had been carefully disposing her forces and winning recruits, and yet she never seemed to urge or persuade the men. But as evening after evening the miners dropped into the cozy room down stairs with her talk and her songs she charmed them till they were wholly hers. She took for granted their loyalty, trusted them utterly and so made it difficult for them to be other than true men.

That night Mrs. Mayor's large store-room, which had been fitted up with seats, was crowded with miners when Mr. Craig and I entered. After a glance over the crowd Craig said: "There's the manager. That means war." And I saw a tall man, very fair, whose chin fell away to the vanishing point and whose hair was parted in the middle, talking to Mrs. Mayor. She was dressed in some rich, soft stuff that became her well. She was looking beautiful as ever, but there was something quite new in her manner. Her air of good fellowship was gone, and she was the high bred lady, whose gentle dignity and sweet grace, while very winning, made familiarity impossible.

The manager was doing his best and appeared to be well pleased with himself.

"She'll get him if any one can. I failed," said Craig.

I stood looking at the men, and a fine lot of fellows they were. Free, easy, bold in their bearing, they gave no sign of rudeness, and from their frequent glances toward Mrs. Mayor I could see they were always conscious of her presence. No men so truly gentle as the westerners in the presence of a good woman. They were evidently of all classes and ranks originally, but now and in this country of real measurements they ranked simply according to the "man" in them.

"See that handsome young chap of disipated appearance?" said Craig. "That's Vernon Winton, an Oxford graduate, blue blood, awfully plucky, but quite gone. When he gets repentant, instead of shooting himself he comes to Mrs. Mayor. Fact."

"From Oxford university to Black Rock mining camp is something of a step," I replied.

"That queer looking little chap in the corner is Billy Green. How in the world has he got here?" went on Mr. Craig.

Queer looking he was—a little man, with a small head set on long, square shoulders, long arms, and huge hands that sprawled all over his body; altogether a most ungainly specimen of humanity.

By this time Mrs. Mayor had finished with the manager and was in the center of a group of miners. Her grand air was all gone, and she was their comrade, their friend, one of themselves. Nor did she assume the role of entertainer, but rather did she, with half shy air, cast herself upon their charity, and they were too truly gentlemen to fall for it. It is hard to make western men, and especially old timers, talk. But this gift was hers, and it stirred my admiration to see her draw on a grizzled veteran to tell her, twenty years ago, he had crossed the Great Divide and had seen and done what no longer fell to men to see or do in these new days. And so she won the old timer. But it was beautiful to see the innocent glee with which she caught Billy Green and drew him to her corner near the organ. What she was saying I knew not, but poor Billy was protesting, waving his big hands.

The meeting came to order, with Shaw in the chair and the handsome young Oxford man secretary. Shaw stated the object of the meeting in a few bold words, but when he came to speak of the pleasure he and all felt in being together in that room his words flowed in a stream, warm and full. Then there was a pause, and Mr. Craig was called, but he knew better than to speak at that point. Finally Nixon rose hesitatingly, but as he caught a bright smile from Mrs. Mayor he straightened himself as if far a fight.

"I ain't no good at makin' speeches," he began, "but it ain't speeches we want. We've got something to do, and what we want to know is how to do it. And, to be right plain, we want to know how to drive this cursed whisky out of Black Rock. You all know what it's done for us, at least for some of us, and it's time to stop it now, or for some of us it'll mighty soon be too late, and the only way to stop it work is to quit drinkin' it and help others to quit. I hear some talk of a league, and what I say is if it's a league out and out against whisky, a total abstinence right to the ground, then I'm with it. That's my talk. I move we make that kind of a league."

Nixon sat down amid cheers and a chorus of remarks: "Good man!" "That's the talk!" "Stay with it!" But he waited for the smile and the glance that came to him from the beautiful face in the corner, and with that he seemed content.

Again there was silence. Then the secretary rose, with a slight flush upon his handsome, delicate face, and seconded the motion. If they would pardon a personal reference, he would give them his reasons. He had come to this country to make his fortune. Now he was anxious to make enough to enable him to go home with some degree of honor. His home held everything that was dear to him. Between him and that home, between him and all that was good and beautiful and honorable, stood whisky. "I've unlearned to confess," and the flush deepened on his cheek and his lips grew thinner, "that I feel the need of some such league." His handsome face, his perfect style of address, learned possibly in the Union, but, more than all, his shrewdness, for these men knew how to value that, made a strong impression on his audience, but there were no following cheers.

Mr. Craig appeared hopeful, but on Mrs. Mayor's face there was a look of wistful, tender pity, for she knew how much the words had cost the lad.

Then up rose a sturdy, hard featured man, with a bur in his voice that proclaimed him a fighter. His name was George Crawford, I afterward learned, but every one called him Geordie. He was a character in his way, fond of his glass; but, though he was never known to refuse a drink, he was never known to be drunk. He took his drink, for the most part, with bread and cheese in his own shack or with a friend or two in a nober, respectable way, but never could he be induced to join the wild carousals in Slavin's saloon. He made the highest wages, but was far too true a Scot to spend his money recklessly. Every one waited eagerly to hear Geordie's mind. He spoke solemnly, as befitting a Scotsman expressing a deliberate opinion, and, carefully, as if choosing his best English, for when Geordie became excited no one in Black Rock could understand him.

"Master Chairman," said Geordie. "I'm aye for temperance in a' things. There was a shout of laughter, at which Geordie gazed round in puzzled surprise. "I'll no deny," he went on in an explanatory tone, "that I tak ma mornin' an' maybe a nip at noon an' a wee dram after work in the evenin' an' whiles a slip o' toddy wi' a freen the cauld nights, but I'm no a' gizzer, an' I dinna gang in wi' the loons flingin' about good money."

"And that's true for ye, me hyc," interrupted a rich Irish brogue, to the delight of the crowd and the amazement of Geordie, who went calmly on: "An' I canna hide yon saloon whin they sell sic wuf-like stuff—it's mair like lye nor guld whisky—an' y'haur ye're never mair o' yec tight change. It's an awfu'-like place, Man," and Geordie began to warm up, "ye can just smell the sulphur when ye gang in. But I dinna care about the temperance societies, wi' their pledges an' bayers, an' I canna see what harm can come till a man by takin' a bottle o' lye whisky home wi' him. I canna hide the total tuddies."

Geordie's speech was followed by loud applause, partly appreciative of Geordie himself, but largely sympathetic with his position.

Two or three men followed in the same strain, advocating a league for mutual improvement and social purposes, but without the total pledge. They were against the saloon, but did not see why they should not take a drink now and then.

Finally the manager rose to support his "friend, Mistah—ah—Crawford," ridiculing the idea of a total abstinence pledge as fanatical and indeed "absurd." He was opposed to the saloon and would like to see a club formed, with a comfortable clubhouse, books, magazines, pictures, games, anything, "don'tcherknow, to make the time pass pleasantly," but it was "absurd to ask men to abstain from a popoah use of—ah—nourishing drinks" because some men made beasts of themselves. He concluded by offering $50 toward the support of such a club.

The current of feeling was settling strongly against the total abstinence idea, and Craig's face was hard, and his eyes gleamed like coals. Then he did a bit of generalship. He proposed that since they had the two plans clearly before them they should take a few minutes' intermission in which to make up their minds, and he was sure they would be glad to have Mrs. Mayor sing. In the interval the men talked in groups, eagerly, even fiercely, hampered seriously in the forceful expression of their opinions by the presence of Mrs. Mayor, who glided from group to group, dropping a word here and a smile there. She reminded me of a general riding along the ranks, tracing his men for the coming battle. She paused beside Geordie, spoke earnestly for a few moments, while Geordie gazed solemnly at her, and then she came back to Billy in the corner near me. What she was saying I could not hear, but poor Billy was protesting, spreading his hands out aimlessly before him, but gazing at her while in dumb admiration. Then she came to me.

"Poor Billy! He was good to my husband," she said softly, "and he has a good heart."

"He's not much to look at," I could not help saying.

"The ayeer hides its pearl," she answered, a little reproachfully.

"The shell is apparent enough," I replied, for the mischief was in me.

"Ah, yes," she replied softly, "but it is the pearl we love."

I moved over beside Billy, whose eyes were following Mrs. Mayor as she went to speak to Mr. Craig.

"Well," I said, "you all seem to have a high opinion of her."

"An' 'lch hopinion!" he replied in deep scorn. "An' 'lch hopinion, you call it!"

"What would you call it?" I asked, wishing to draw him out.

"O! don't call it nothink," he replied, spreading out his rough hands.

"She seems very nice," I said indifferently.

He drew his eyes away from Mrs. Mayor and gave attention to me for the first time.

"Nice!" he repeated, with due content, and then he added impressively, "Them us don't know shouldn't say nothink."

"You are right," I answered earnestly, "and I am quite of your opinion."

He gave me a quick glance out of his little, deep-set, dark blue eyes and opened his heart to me. He told me in his quaint speech how again and again she had taken him in and nursed him and encouraged him and sent him out with a new heart for his little until, for very shame's sake at his own miserable weakness, he had kept out of her way for many months, going steadily down.

"Now, O! hain't gat no grip, but when she says to ye tonight, says she, 'O! Billy,' she calls me Billy to myself" (this with a touch of pride)—"oh, Billy," says she, 'we must 'ave a total abstinence league tonight, and O! want you to 'elp' and she keeps a lookin' at me with those heyes o' hers till, if you believe me, sir," lowering his voice to an emphatic whisper, "though O! knowed O! couldn't 'elp none, afore O! knowed O! promised 'er O! would. It's 'er heyes. When them heyas says 'da,' hup you steps and 'does.'"

I remember my first look into her eyes, and I could quite understand Billy's submission. Just as she began to sing I went over to Geordie and took my seat beside him. She began with an English stunner song, "Sleep, Baby, Sleep," one of Barry Cornwall's, I think, and then sang a love song with the refrain, "Love once again," but no thrills came to me, and I began to wonder if her spell over me was broken. Geordie, who had been listening somewhat indifferently, encouraged me, however, by saying: "She's just pitting' off time with the feckless rangers. Man, there's nae grip till them." But when, after a few minutes' pause, she began "My Ain Firsde" Geordie gave a sigh of satisfaction, "Aye, that's something like," and when she finished the first verse he gave me a dig in the ribs with his elbow that took my breath away, saying in a whisper, "Man, hear till you, will ye?" And again I found the spell upon me. It was not the voice, after all, but the great soul behind that thrilled and compelled. She was seeing, feeling, living, what she sang, and her voice showed us her heart. The cozy fireside, with its bonny, little blink, where no one could abide, but only peace and love, was vividly present to her, and as she sang we saw it too. When she came to the last verse:
